Joseph Mellot 'La Chatellenie' 2012

The Mellot family have been Sancerre growers since 1513 (César Mellot was Wine Advisor to Louis XIV) and Mellot are synonymous with fine quality. Mellot are also leaders in environmental conservation and among the first to boldly introduce the energy efficient plastic wine bottle. But not for this, their flagship Sancerre. The prized, steep-sloping La Chatellenie vineyard has been in the family for generations. It enjoys a perfect aspect and is littered with pieces of flint, which are said to imbue the wine with its hallmark 'gun-flint' aroma. In a vintage that favoured this part of the valley, meticulous winemaking produced an intense, steely fresh style balanced by gooseberry, grassy complexity. Enjoy with fine seafood and fish dishes.
