2012 Haut-Bergey, Pessac-Léognan

SKU #1186820

90 points James Suckling

“ A red with chocolate, tobacco and berry character, following through to a medium body, fine tannins and a fresh finish. Drink or hold. ” (2/2015)

90 points Robert Parker's Wine Advocate

“ The Garcin family has done a fabulous job in Bordeaux with their other estates, such as Barde-Haut and Clos L'Eglise in Pomerol, as well as with the nearby luxury wine from Pessac Léognan – Branon. They produce this wine from gravelly and sandy soils, of 70% Cabernet Sauvignon and 30% Merlot. Attractive, soft cassis and tobacco-leaf notes mixed with licorice and spice are present in this dense ruby/plum wine. It is medium-bodied with soft tannin and a relatively smooth, velvety texture, finish and opulence, giving this wine an up-front appeal, although it should age nicely for 12-15 years. (RP) ” (4/2015)

90 points Vinous

“ The 2012 Haut-Bergey is plump, juicy and forward. Sweet red cherries, plums, smoke, tobacco, licorice and herbs are all pushed forward in a supple Pessac Léognan to drink over the next few years. (AG) ” (1/2016)

90 points Wine Enthusiast

“ This is a tough wine, but one with enough weight and fruit about it. It is dense and packed with potential of good things. Big fruits, big tannins and a dark structure all promise good aging with a serious, firm aftertaste. Drink from 2020. (RV) Cellar Selection ” (5/2015)

89 points Wine Spectator

“ Solid and direct, with a core of crushed plum and blackberry fruit lined with mesquite, tobacco and singed anise notes. Juicy acidity fuels the finish. Drink now through 2019. (JM) ” (3/2015)
