INFORMATION

- ✓ chardonnay with fatness and a touch of oak
- ✓ tasty cane wine
- ✓ full, fresh, fruity and aromatic
- ✓ ideal for fish, seafood or salads

Tasting note Panul Chardonnay

Fruity white wine from Chile with a light toast aroma, a hint of oak and a fresh juicy taste. Excellent as an aperitif but also very tasty with fish, seafood or salads.

Description

The viticulture in Chile is very much in the spotlight. Due to the vastness of the country, the winemaker can choose the climatically ideal wine region for the production of the grapes. White grapes generally thrive better in relatively cool wine regions, while red require more heat and sun. The producer of Panul is Francisco Errazuriz from one of the best-known Chilean wine families. This chardonnay with fatness and a hint of oak is a delicious cane wine. The Colchagua Valley is located southwest of Santiago with the cool influence of the Pacific Ocean in the vicinity. Winemaker is the Englishman Hugh Ryman graduate oenologue at the University of Bordeaux and also responsible for the beautiful Domaine de la Jaubertie wines from the Bergerac.
